OUR PARISH

The pornbrokers have won the day - for the present. The people have been betrayed. But, as is the case in other countries when the people have been betrayed by their political servants turned masters, the Australian people will one day demonstrate their power. The question of X-rated videos is essentially a serious social problem. The Labor Party Caucus has chosen to turn it into a political issue. And politics, at its meanest level, is a matter of numbers. The Caucus has cast its vote. In the not too distant future it will be the turn of the people to cast theirs.

The decision of Caucus has outraged a large segment of the community. In the words of a former Labor Prime Minister we say to the people "Maintain the rage!" - until the next election.
